

COUPLE ENRICHMENT

A Workshop

Durham Friends Historic Meetinghouse
404 Alexander Drive, Durham, NC 27707

April 27, 2019, 9 am to 5 pm
Childcare provided

For any couple interested in

- deepening intimacy in their relationship
- strengthening community, and
- being patterns and examples of peacemaking in the world.

Friends Couple Enrichment is about creating one small plot of heaven here on earth. It is about deep listening, not just to your partner, but to the living spirit that brought you together. It is about celebration, joy, and offering up gratitude, as well as conflict resolution and problem-solving. This is enrichment, not therapy or counseling.

In marriage you are not sacrificing yourself to the other person. You are sacrificing yourself to the relationship...that's the problem with getting married. You must ask yourself, "Can I open myself to compassion?"
(Joseph Campbell)

The workshop is open to all couples regardless of marital status, gender, sexual orientation, religious affiliation, etc.

Cost: $20/couple plus freewill donation.
Bring a brown-bag lunch. Drinks and snacks will be provided.

Questions/RSVP ASAP to Mike and Marsha Green at marshaandmike@friendscoupleenrichment.org or call 919.929.2339.

For more information about Friends Couple Enrichment, watch their QuakerSpeak video at www.friendscoupleenrichment.org.

Mike and Marsha have have been nurturing family life for 30 years and leading Couple Enrichment workshops under the auspices of Friends Couple Enrichment for the past 20 years. They are members of the Durham Friends Meeting in Durham, NC. They have 3 grown children and have been given a call to nurture peacemaking in the home.